

Hello everyone!

I couldn't believe it this morning when Mr Allen shouted for me. The Naughty Elf was climbing into the water fountain!!!! Thankfully he had the sense to keep safe and wear his life jacket. Just take a look at the quick photo I got.

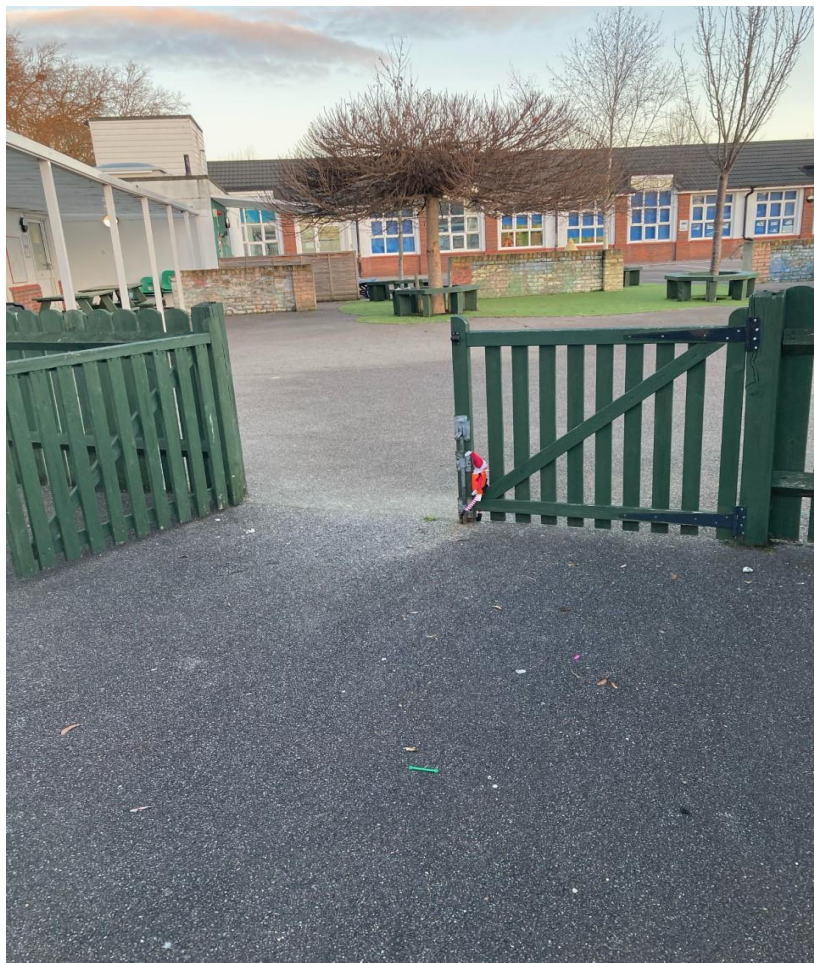

As quick as a flash, he started to jump out of the water fountain - but I kept snapping photos.

I was a bit worried that he might chase me but he dashed out of a crack in the door.

He dashed across the playground - perhaps you might be able to spot him in the distance?

He is a very quick little fellow, if you see him, can you let me know, please?
Thanks, Paula

