

Oh dear children those naughty
Elves have struck again, I couldn't believe the mess in the ZenDen when I came in this morning and the melted ice cubes have made all of our books soggy ☹️

I asked Mr Allen to check the cameras to find out what had happened. I had a feeling that those naughty elves had something to do with it. And I was right

The Toy Story gang and the Naughty Elves were having a snowball fight and it was all caught on camera.

Something must have scared them because they jumped down from the unit and sped away in a car.

Mr Potato Head even held the door open to help them to escape.

I don't know where they went after this, they must be hiding somewhere in the school waiting to strike again.

Keep a look out for them children. If you see them let me know!