

Good morning everyone,

You wouldn't believe what I saw when I came in to school this morning. I planned to get in early to get some marking done, but oh no! Those pesky elves have been causing mischief over the weekend; it looks like they had a party! Look at all the popcorn crushed into the carpet along the corridors. Our poor cleaners will have to clear that up before school starts!

Then, imagine my surprise when the trail led to my classroom all the way at the other end of the school!! When I went inside my room, sweets and rubbish were left all over the tables and I noticed this sign on my whiteboard! What a busy weekend they had planned.

Looking around, I caught one naughty elf drawing on the behaviour chart but I was too slow to catch him. He must have heard me as when I went to grab him, he leapt onto the wall and escaped out of the window. Look what he did to my class pictures! They moved them down and drew all over their faces!

When I looked behind me, the other elf was asleep. He had eaten all of the chocolates in my advent calendar!! No denying it, the evidence is all over his face! Look! I managed to snap a quick picture to show you but when I got closer, he woke up and rushed out of the window! Those elves were too fast for me.

Instead of marking, I've had to spend all morning cleaning my room ready for my class to arrive. Please look out for these elves around the school everyone, they must be stopped!!

Signed, a very angry Miss Beckett!
