

Naughty Elves Spotted in Reception!

Some of you may already know, but over the past few months, we have noticed that the floor in RD has developed some large bumps in it. We have been wondering what has been causing this problem, but we never imagined it could be this.

Just take a look at what Mrs Imrie and I found this morning when we arrived at school...

We caught both of the elves climbing out of the drain in the reception garden! As soon as they saw us, they threw their spades to the ground and ran as fast as they could!

As we tried to catch them, they shouted, "Thanks for letting us live in the tunnel we dug under your classroom! Ha ha ha!"

Before we knew it, they were climbing up the drain pipe, onto the roof and running over in the direction of the KS2 playground!

I have filled in their tunnel for now, but please, please keep your eyes open for these cheeky elves. They really do cause nothing but trouble!
